Regulation of Ice Is Challenged by Prosecutor at L.R.

Carl E. Bailey Says He Believes 3-Year-Old Law Invalid

AID TO BIG CITIES

Defeat of Regulation Would Help Big Towns, Hurt Smaller Ones

The authority of the legislature to regulate the price of ice with a law that was passed three years ago, is challenged in a statement by prosecuting attorney Carl E. Bailey at Little Rock Saturday night.

Mr. Bailey, advising a North Little Rock ice manufacturer, J. D. Reed, to refuse to pay state fees to the Arkansas Railroad Commission, the regulatory bureau, gave it his opinion that the entire Arkansas ice law is unconstitutional.

He based his opinion on what he said was a study of the recent United States Supreme Court decision invalidating an ice regulatory law in Oklahoma.

Dermott Ice Reduced
Just prior to Mr. Bailey's statement the Railroad Commission had ordered a reduction in the price of ice Friday at Dermott, from 60 cents a hundred pounds to 50 cents.

Similar action was being contemplated by the city councils of Hope and other cities.

Mr. Bailey's opinion provoked widespread comment throughout the state, and from Hope attorneys. One local authority said he believed the Little Rock prosecutor was "presumptuous, since many attorneys believe the Arkansas Supreme Court has already approved the regulatory section of the ice law."

The Arkansas Supreme Court decision in the fall of 1929, that upheld the section regulating prices.

Regulation May Stand
In the decision on the Oklahoma case, a law similar to Arkansas', the federal Supreme Court is understood to have passed only on the competitive point. Its view on this point was identical with the views of the Supreme Court of Arkansas and Oklahoma—but there is widespread belief that price-regulation still stands.

The effect of Mr. Bailey's contention would be to throw the price of ice back to private competition. It is believed here that the effect would make for lower-priced ice in Little Rock and the larger cities which have many ice plants, but high-priced ice in Hope and other middle-class cities where there is virtually an ice monopoly.

Mo. Pac. Win Over Guard Team 1-0

Guardsmen Previously Had Beaten Junior Leaguers 12 to 6

The Hope National Guard baseball team performed in impressive fashion by trouncing the Junior League nine by a score of 12 to 6 at Fair park Sunday afternoon.

Kennedy started in the box for the Juniors, but was hit hard. He was relieved by Hamiter, who also was ineffective and unable to check the onslaught of National Guard batsmen. Fate pitched for the Guard team, but gave way to a relief pitcher in the early innings.

Immediately following the first battle, the Missouri Pacific team took on the National Guard nine. This was the best game of the evening, the Missouri team shutting out the Guard aggregation by a score of 1 to 0.

A good crowd turned out to witness the two games.

Cotton Exporting Continues to Gain

Exports Thus Far This Season 1½ Million Bales Over Year Ago

MEMPHIS.—(U. S. Department Agriculture).—The cotton market during the period April 16 to 22 was quiet with price fluctuations narrow. Quotations April 22 were about 20 points lower than those April 15. Demand for spot cotton was stated as indifferent with the volume of spot transactions light.

New crop preparations and conditions are now attracting considerable trade attention. According to the Weather Bureau for the past week cotton planting made some advance and was active in many central and eastern sections, but as a general rule only fair progress was reported.

In the central and eastern belt temperatures were too low especially at night for satisfactory germination of early-planted cotton in the south and moisture is needed in central gulf districts. In the western belt planting was irregular in Texas but some progress was made at the north-central portion of the state. Very good advance was reported from most parts of Oklahoma.

During March sales of fertilizer tags in the eight most important cotton states excluding Oklahoma amounted to about 46.8 per cent of March 1931, 33.4 per cent of March 1930 and were the smallest for that month for more than a decade. For the four months December through March tag sales were 51.8 per cent less than during that period last season, 69.2 per cent 1929-30 and were also the smallest at least since 1920-21 when these records first became available.

Average price middling 7-8 inch as compiled from the quotations of the ten designated spot markets April 22, 5.78 compared with 5.56 April 15th and 5.41c a year ago for the corresponding day.

Exports to April 22 this season amounted to about 7,300,000 bales or 1,400,000 bales larger than for the corresponding period the previous season. According to the Bureau of Census there were operated at some time during the month of March 24,800,000 cotton spinning spindles compared with 25,200,000 for February and 26,500,000 for March a year ago.

BACK IS FRACTURED

Dies Few Hours Later in Hope Hospital—Is Buried at Falcon

Harve Arterbury, aged about 26, died in a local hospital at 8 o'clock Saturday night, as the result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident near Lewisville Saturday noon.

Arterbury and five companions had gone fishing just below Lewisville and were returning to that town to purchase more fishing bait when their car failed to negotiate a curve on a loose gravel road, turning over in a ditch. The car was demolished as the result of the impact, and later burned up.

Arterbury was brought to Hope Saturday afternoon and placed in the Hope hospital. Physicians said he suffered from a deep head wound, a crushed chest, punctured lungs and a broken back.

Insurance Men of District Six Meet

Hope Fire Agents Entertain for Southwestern Counties

Fifteen fire insurance men from points in Southwestern Arkansas met in Hope at a District No. 6 conference of the state association Monday morning, winding up with luncheon at noon in the New Capital Hotel.

The visitors were guests of the Hope agents. They opened the business session in the city hall, a feature of which was a demonstration run by the Hope fire department from the station house on Third street to the city hall building. Firemen had expected to make the run, connect their hose and put steam over the city hall, in 2½ minutes. The agents gave them 3 minutes. The men, headed by Chief O. L. Wyatt, turned the trick in 2 minutes and 58 seconds.

At the luncheon at the hotel, R. T. White presided, with William Stredelman, assistant manager of the State Fire Prevention Bureau at Little Rock, making the principal address.

Mr. Stredelman spoke chiefly on methods of reducing the number of policy forms from seven or eight at present to possibly two or three.

Mayor John Vesey and Alex. H. Washburn, guests, spoke briefly.

Arrangements for the meeting were in charge of E. S. Greening, chairman, Mr. White, vice-chairman, and W. P. Agce, secretary of the district organization. A clever printed menu featuring listed as "sprinkler system kind" and head lettuce and tomatoes as "90 per cent coverage."

Those present included W. M. Siliman, of Camden, state president of the association; C. C. Mitchener, of Marianna, state secretary, and the following:

Mrs. Mitchener; Mr. and Mrs. Mack Anderson, Little Rock; E. W. Martin, Texarkana; E. M. Sharp, Prescott; John W. Holoman, Texarkana; Manzie Stevens, Texarkana; H. M. McKenzie, Prescott; Daniel A. Price and Louie Dickinson, Nashville; and E. S. Greening, W. P. Agce, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Anderson, and Mr. and Mrs. R. T. White.

If Regulation Fails
LAST Friday the Arkansas Railroad Commission ordered the price of ice reduced from 60 to 50 cents a hundred pounds at Detroit.
The following day there was a sensational development at Little Rock which threatens the failure of all state regulation of ice prices. Carl E. Bailey, prosecuting attorney at the capital city, advised J. D. Reed, North Little Rock ice manufacturer, to discontinue payment of fees to the Railroad Commission on the ground that the Arkansas ice regulatory law is unconstitutional.
It will be recalled that when the Arkansas law was enacted in 1929 it provided for two things: Regulation of prices by the Railroad Commission, and the setting up of new ice plants only on permission of the state bureau.
The Arkansas Supreme Court invalidated the second provision, holding that ice companies were not a true public utility and could not be declared a monopoly.
This spring a test case carried up from Oklahoma on a similar law resulted in the United States Supreme Court declaring the Oklahoma law unconstitutional.
Prosecutor Bailey in a statement from Little Rock Saturday night said he believed this prohibited Arkansas not only from creating ice monopolies but also destroyed the right to regulate prices.

While we were strongly opposed to the monopoly feature, said this was knocked out by the Arkansas Supreme Court, we regret to see the regulation of prices threatened also.
If the state has no power to fix the price of ice, then the price will be fixed by private competition. The effect in cities like Little Rock and Texarkana, where there are several competing plants, will be lower-priced ice. But the effect in cities like Hope, where there is a monopoly, will be to sustain the price at the high level to which state regulation once carried it.
State regulation fixed the price in Hope at 60 cents a hundred. Under the regulatory act it would have been possible for the City of Hope to demand a lower price from the Railroad Commission, on the ground that the ice companies had enjoyed a protected high price for the last three years. That is how Dermott won its 10-cent reduction last Friday. But if the law is unconstitutional, the Dermott ice company will refuse to obey. If the law is unconstitutional, the City of Hope so far as it is officially concerned is powerless.

There are two ice plants in Hope, but The Star is of the opinion that they constitute a monopoly. The Southern Ice & Utilities Co. operate the larger plant, while the smaller one is controlled by Ashcraft & Brinker, of Sulphur Springs, Texas. Both are big operators. It is the custom of big operators to assign each other their respective territories. Thus in Hope the Southern Ice & Utilities Co. has the larger plant and maintains a fleet of delivery wagons, while Ashcraft & Brinker, owning the smaller plant, never have put on competitive delivery wagons, but content themselves with an "over-the-counter" business. If this is competition, it's about as reasonable as if the writer owned a second newspaper in Hope, but hired no carrier-boys, telling the public if it wanted this second paper it could "come to the office and get it."
If price regulation has failed, it means that the City of Hope has fallen into the hands of a utility combination which will keep a posted price of 60 cents a hundred from here on out.

There are only two courses open to the city: One is to organize a consumers' league and ship ice into Hope from independent plants in other cities; the other course is for the city government to force a show-down as to whether Prosecutor Bailey is right in his view of the United States Supreme Court decision.

Personally, we think Mr. Bailey is in error. He says, however, he has read the transcript on the Oklahoma case in the federal Supreme Court, while our only information is from the Literary Digest's account two weeks ago.

But it appears to us that the federal Supreme Court passed only on that phase of the case—the limiting of competition rather than the regulation of price—which was passed on by the Arkansas Supreme Court in the fall of 1930.

Our readers should bear in mind the fact that our state Supreme Court, while it destroyed the no-competition clause of the ice law, upheld the right of the state to regulate prices.

So far as we know, that is still the law—Mr. Bailey to the contrary.

The City of Hope ought to enter a vigorous action at once to determine what the law really is.

Summer is drawing near. A reduction in the price of ice is of vital importance to our 6,000 inhabitants—for ice is one commodity whose demand per capita is fixed and inflexible. Consumption of electricity may be curtailed. A letter may substitute for the long-distance telephone. Economies may be effected in the use of gas—but when summer comes on there is no escaping the purchase of ice, and the consumption depends almost entirely on the whims of the weather.

The city government owes it to its citizens to find relief in such a crisis.

THE MINN HUNTERS

BY MABEL McELLIOTT

CHAPTER XXIII
IF Susan had known her aunt's plans she would have been furiously angry. As it was she met Ben gayly the following afternoon. He came through the coach looking rather more sulky than usual but almost pathetically brushed and tidy.
"Hello," she said. "We're bound for the same place."
"I guess so," Ben threw a shabby black bag into the rack overhead and sat down. Modestly his gaze took her in, from the top of her new brown felt to the tip of her shoe.
"You look nice," was all he could find to say, and that rather grudgingly.
Susan thanked him, reflecting sarcastically that he was scarcely the perfect picture of an ardent admirer. Poor Ben! On a plane keyboard his fingers spoke the only language that he knew. Otherwise he was inarticulate.
"I don't know why I said I'd come to this racket," Ben grumbled. "Sonia forced me into it—said it would be good for my work."
"Maybe it will," Susan told him, determined to look on the bright side of things this glorious fall day. With the morning her misgivings had dissolved, leaving her confident and happy.
Ben stared at her. "You know why we're asked, don't you?" he demanded. "That kid thinks we're a bunch of freaks. When she comes down to Sonia's she believes she's slumming and gets a terrible kick out of it. She told Sonia I reminded her of the Left Bank."
"I don't think that sounds so bad," Susan said. "What she means is you're all artists and artists have always been taken up by rich people. That's not new."
Ben snorted. "Where do you come in? You don't usually get invited to parties. Sonia said she would be respected there. Susan shrugged. "I don't know. I'll just have to wait and see. The Strinskys were not only unconventional; they were weird."
THE Strinskys' chauffeur must have been used to all this because his features remained wooden, his manner perfect. Sonia gave Susan a hand and Ben a chatter animatedly to Ben.
The car wound along the same road Susan had traveled the day she went to Mr. Heath's. The lake stretched before them and, overhanging it on the edge of a ravine, was a house. A stone house, forbidding, magnificent.
The Strinskys tumbled out with their incredible luggage and Ben and Susan followed. They went up broad steps to a grilled iron door where a man servant swung open for them.
A thin, elderly woman was descending the staircase. She introduced herself as Mrs. Fleury, the chaperon. She said Denise had been unavoidably detained at the club but would be in directly and would Miss Carey and Mrs. Strinsky like to go to their rooms?
Ben and Arnold lingered below. Susan was shown into a high ceilinged room, crowded with delicate French furniture. The great, low bed had a gilded head-piece and the coverlet was of faded pink brocade. It was all subtly elegant. Through an open door she glimpsed a bathroom done in brilliant tile. The glass shelves were crowded with heavy

Financing Urged For Farm Exports
Stone Suggests $100,000,000 Fund Providing Cotton, Wheat Credit

WASHINGTON, (P)—A recommendation that the rough spots of international trade be greased with a $100,000,000 fund which would finance foreign sales of wheat and cotton was made Friday by Chairman Stone of the Farm Board.
In his letter to Chairman McNary of the Senate Agriculture Committee, he urged enactment of a resolution to devote that amount of Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds to such a purpose.
The board believes, Stone said, that "controlled foreign sales on credit would be a benefit to the domestic and foreign markets in wheat," and also increase consumption of American cotton.
Stone's endorsement follows Secretary Hyde's suggestion that $100,000,000 of the $200,000,000 voted in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act for crop loans be used for this purpose.
In his letter, Stone said "a number of foreign countries are in the market for American wheat." Their buying power is limited by their inability to pay cash or furnish securities acceptable in the usual financing of export sales.
Stone pointed out that European port and mill stocks of cotton are 800,000 to 1,000,000 below normal amounts because of credit stringency. The board itself cannot extend credit because of the lean condition of its treasury.

Prison Terms Appealed for Narcotic Law Violation

LAREDO, Tex., (P)—Mr. and Mrs. Alfonso Verdugo, convicted in federal court Thursday of violating the narcotic laws, were given 15-month prison sentences Friday by Judge T. M. Kennerly. Defense counsel announced the cases would be appealed. The court allowed bond of $6000 each and gave the defense until May 4 to prepare the appeals.
The garagman and his wife were arrested by federal officers who raided their Laredo home last Friday night. Approximately six ounces of narcotics were confiscated.

Anemia in Baby Pigs Prevented by Sulphates

AMES, Iowa, (P)—Experiments have shown A. L. Anderson of Iowa State college that closely-confined suckling pigs need mineral salts or else they might fall prey to nutritive anemia. This can be prevented, the swine specialist has found, if two pounds of iron sulphate and two ounces of copper sulphate are mixed with 100 pounds of soil and placed in the litter pens.

Poultry Fancier Objects to Bees
Calls County Attorney—Claims Bees Among Ducks and Chickens

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., (P)—Because a neighbor's bees were annoying his ducks and chickens, a San Antonio poultry fancier recently telephoned County Attorney D. F. Davis to know if something couldn't be done to keep the bees in their own back yard. Davis was told. The law, Davis explained to the complainant, does not provide for injunctions against bees crossing a street, and nothing can be done unless a bee stings a chicken. Then damages may be claimed.

Stretches Self

PHILADELPHIA—Earl L. Shaffer wanted so much to be a patrolman that when he was rejected because of his height, he spent six months doing rigorous exercises until he was over the required measurement. Sixteen hours a day, "and sometimes 24," Shaffer said, were spent in doing the exercises, which increased his stature one inch, just enough to pass the limit.

From the looks of things, historians in Russia and Japan might as well start looking up arguments on which one started the war.

Russian newspapers say that Japan is looking for war. And, from this viewpoint, they seem to be looking in the right direction.

Theodore Roosevelt acted as referee in the Russo-Japanese war in 1904-5, but this time it looks as if the League of Nations will be the third party in the ring.

The official decision in that bout between the Japanese and Chinese at Shanghai seems to have been "no contest."

If China and Japan ever get in a real fight, the League ought to make Japan use 12-ounce gloves.

Washington dispatch says Speaker Garner has a cold. Not in his feet, we hope.

Hiram Johnson says we can get just as much dry enforcement for $5,000,000 as for $10,000,000. We ought to get it that good for nothing.

This day hath dawned in majesty,
And sunlight glides each distant slope;
No summer day could be more calm,
Or breathe so tenderly of hope.
God's voice is soft on the hills,
And home's spot that whispers rest,
Endowed by memory's tender charm;
No other spot on earth so blest.

The lilacs, in their winter's sleep,
Show buds that do with promise swell,
For God Ordains that buds shall bloom,
And softly winds murmur, "All is well."
Then peace, tired heart, no more re-
lent; let faith enrich each passing day;
Earth's sorrows for a night endure,
But shall, like darkness, pass away.

"Spa" Centennial Party This Week

Hot Springs Recalls Discovery by Spanish Explorers in Arkansas

Hot Springs National Park, Arkansas, America's first national playground, will celebrate its 100th Anniversary as a federal possession during the week of April 28th, at which time an elaborate program will be staged in observance of the occasion.

A mammoth historical pageant is being especially arranged to portray the days when the Spanish explorers first visited the "hot pools" down to the present, depicting in elaborately constructed floats the outstanding events which have made Hot Springs National Park the most frequent Spa on the North American continent, noted despite its age for its modern facilities to cater to the wants of thousands of interested tourists.

Along with these features there will be an Airport Day, when the entire community will dedicate the beautiful and modern port; Bath House Day, when the world famed thermal baths will be exploited in some unique manner; Arkansas' first motor boat regatta, to be contested on the scenic Hot Springs man-made lakes; and a "Homecoming Day," when emphasis will be played on getting former residents and former visitors to renew their acquaintances with old friends during the big birthday frolic.

Hot Springs National Park is the first section of the country to be set aside by legislative action as a government preserve. In 1832 Congress dedicated it to the American people, preserving the waters of the springs in perpetuity, free from monopoly and commercial exploitation. It was not until 1921, however, that Congress formally designated the Reservation as The Hot Springs National Park and placed it under the direct control of the Department of the Interior.

Only recently, the movement to celebrate the anniversary of Uncle Sam's first "playground" received federal endorsement from Washington, and since then Hot Springs' sentiment has reached such proportions that every civic and social organization in the resort has combined its forces to not only make the occasion a gala affair but an epochal one.

Although Hot Springs has been known for many years primarily as a health resort, its reputation as an "all-year" pleasure Spa is now its greatest asset. Magnificent bath houses, supplied with boiling water from natural springs, that attracted visitors from all over the world, made necessary the construction of fine hotels and apartments to house the ever-increasing number of guests. Golf courses, country clubs, bridge paths, and other recreational facilities have been lavishly added until this government preserve has become a great and popular pleasure resort.

All Arkansas is invited to participate in this celebration of Hot Springs as the state will derive national and international publicity through the general plan of advertising this unusual event.

"Slow Train" Was Not Intended as a Libel

Regarding a spirited discussion that was held by one of the local literary clubs recently, as to the author of "A Slow Train Through Arkansas," it was brought out that Thomas William Jackson wrote "A Slow Train Through Arkansas." Mr. Jackson said his book was not a travesty on the state but a compilation of the jokes and comments he heard while performing his duty as passenger conductor on a railroad train that ran through Arkansas. Proof may be had by writing Mr. Jackson at his home in Mineral Wells, Texas.

Man's Body Found In Woman's Clothes

North Carolina Resident Believed Murdered by Degenerate

CHARLOTTE, N. C.—"Murder by a degenerate" was the verdict of police here Sunday after a new examination of the body of Albert R. Rudisill, aged 24, was found grotesquely dressed in women's clothing, hanging in a warehouse early Saturday.

The young man's tongue was found inverted in his throat, rammed in that position by a wad of silk lingerie material. A black and white dress clad the body that was found hanging by a silken noose. The face was made up with rouge and lipstick and a pair of goggles, with extra lenses. Ear bobs were on both ears.
Rudisill's father-in-law and manager of the warehouse in which the young man was a shipping clerk, found the body, after the anxious wife had asked them to look for her husband, who failed to return the night before.
There was no evidence of a struggle at the death scene, and officers believe Rudisill was murdered and his body carried to the warehouse. Rudisill's clothing was in his locker. A woman's silk undergarment was found near the pile of cardboard boxes under his feet, and rouge smeared towel was nearby.

Helps Women Avoid Pains

MORE than half a century of successful use has shown that Cardui helps women to avoid much that they formerly suffered—misery from minor functional disturbances, monthly suffering due to a weakened condition. Cardui acts as a tonic for the system, and tends to improve the general health. It is of especial value to weak, nervous, run-down women, needing just such a strengthening medicine. Those who suffer every month should build up their strength to assist in the natural correction of the painful condition. When you need Cardui, buy a bottle and take it regularly and persistently. Perhaps several bottles will be needed. Finally, may you share the enthusiasm of the thousands of women who have said: "Cardui helped me!"
